Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 06 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers then rain and feeling very cold today. Snow overnight.

Today:
Scattered showers this morning, with some limited bright intervals. This afternoon longer spells of rain will arrive, sometimes heavy. Feeling cold everywhere, especially along the coast where a strong easterly wind will develop. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Tonight:
Initial rain or sleet quickly turns to snow, becoming often heavy. Later significant accumulations of snow will occur, especially for eastern areas, with drifting snow likely as coastal gales develop. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Sunday:
Widespread snow and bitterly cold winds, the snow often heavy, particularly across eastern areas. Further significant accumulations and drifting of snow will occur, especially for eastern areas with coastal gales. Maximum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Monday snow showers or longer spells of snow, with further accumulations and drifting of snow in strong winds. Tuesday scattered snow showers, Wednesday mainly dry. Feeling bitterly cold each day.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.